FOLLOWING THE FLAG

The public is invited to the unfurling of the service flag Sunday, August 4th, at Longview.

Herman Whittaker left several days ago for Nashville and enlisted in the Marines and was sent to Paris Island for training.

C. W. Smithland has received information that his sons, Guy and Austin Smithson, have arrived overseas and are pleased with army life in France.

News comes to friends here from Buck Boxley that he has been transferred again and is now in the ambulance service of the medical corps. He is still at Camp Beauregard, La.

The statement in our recent reference to the boys who went to Washington State for war work was incorrect in one item. Frank Hulse was not in class one, but went as a volunteer in class two.

Mrs. Henry Frankel has six nephews in the army and five of them are now in France. Two of them, Karl and Will Kleeman, of Clarksville, are known to be in the big battle now going on.

Pettus Baker, who arrived in France June 24, writes his father, Bryant Baker, that he is in actual service as camera man in an airplane over the battle front. He says: "We are giving them fits whenever we can catch 'em. Don't worry. Things are going our way and the war will soon be over and we will be home next year."

Capt. Austin Bell left for Greenleaf, Ga., last night, where he will become a member of the Medical Reserve Corps of the U. S. Army. In addition to being one of Hopkinsville's most prominent physicians, he is a veteran of the Spanish-American War and acquainted with army life. He leaves a splendid and lucrative practice to join the colors and fight for his country.

NEW POWER COMPANY.

(By Associated Press.)

Buffalo, N. Y., July 31.—One of the greatest water developing projects of the many centering about Niagara Falls has been launched on the Canadian side of the river. It contemplates an immediate production of 300,000 electrical horsepower, of equal to approximately one-half the present total development on both sides of the river, and it may expand to 1,000,000 horse power.

Actual work on the new channel was begun recently by the Ontario Hydro Commission. There were no ceremonies and the launching of the work was virtually unknown to the general public. The channel will encircle the city of Niagara Falls, Ont., one running from the Welland River a tributary to the Niagara above the cataract, to the escarpment below Queenston heights. The power house will be located on the river level almost at the foot of Brock's monument.

RUNS INTO LAMP POST.

Hamp Dean, an employee of Gates & Co., lost control of his car last night about eight o'clock while driving east on Ninth Street and ran into the white way lamp post at the corner of Ninth and Liberty in front of the Westminster church. Slight damage was done to the car but nobody was injured. Mrs. J. T. Hanbury was passing along the sidewalk and became frightened and fell when she attempted to jump out of the way. However, she was not injured.

RETREAT NOT YET ENDED

LOT OF LAUGH IN BERLIN REPORTS

AMERICAN PRESS HUMORISTS ARE WILLING TO GIVE A MEMBERSHIP TO MAN WHO WRITES THEM.

Chicago, July 30.—Whoever the inspired gentleman in Berlin may be who is writing the German official communiques on the Rheims-Soissons battle situation, he has had a great honor thrust upon him. On proper application he will be admitted to full membership in the American Press Humorists, the national organization of newspaper humorists and cartoonists, which recently held its annual convention in Chicago. The idea was suggested by Douglas Malloch, Chicago poet, and national president of the newspaper wits, and met with his instant approval.

"Sure," said Mr. Malloch, "we shall be glad to take him in—although he has not been able to take us in, as yet. His is the funniest stuff I have seen on the war. I understand that the Germans think so well of it that they run it on the front page. They ought to run it in the humorous column, where it belongs. Whenever I am downhearted, I always read the German report, because it is sure to be good for a laugh. I wonder if it couldn't be worked up into a vaudeville sketch? But, no—it's too funny."

"What about it strikes you as particularly good?"

"Well, for example, this statement that 'having accomplished our purpose—to bring on a French counter-attack—we are now goose-stepping it for the rear.' If that was the purpose of the German generals, you'll have to admit they got results. And, if you will read a little farther, if you are not laughing too hard, you will learn that the Germans won a thrilling victory by 'getting away without being observed.' If they continue to meet with success it looks like they would soon taken Berlin."

"The Germans thought the American army was a joke."

"It was. It must have been, anyway the clown prince fell for it. And at last reports he is still falling—back the Americans aren't taking prisoners—they're overtaking them."

"To what school of humor would you say the official German reports belong?"

"They belong to the deaf, dumb and blind school of humor. They are evidently intended for the inmates of such institutions in Germany who have not yet been sent to the front."

"But would you take a German into membership?"

"Why not? Three of our members—Franklin P. Adams, Grantland Rice and F. Gregory Hartwick—are over there now trying to make the acquaintance of the Germans. I have asked them to try to organize a local chapter in Berlin."

KILLED IN AKRON OHIO

News was received last night of the death by accident of Thomas Witty, at Akron, Ohio. He was a son of W. S. Witty and was an unmarried man 35 or 40 years of age. He went to Akron some time ago to work in a government plant. It is presumed that the body will be brought home for interment.

HOW AMERICANS CROSSED OURCQ

IOWA CAPTAIN LED HIS WHOOPING MEN THROUGH STREAM IN FACE OF GERMAN FIRE.

(By Associated Press.)

With the American Army on the Aisne-Marne front.—The crossing of the Ourcq river was effected by the Americans Sunday in brilliant style in the face of great difficulties, the Germans having destroyed the bridge and placed their artillery and machine guns in advantageous positions to resist the attempts at a passage.

The French and American forces had planned to cross the Ourcq before daylight on Sunday, but the German heavy artillery held the slopes leading to the river under fire, which continued all night. The Americans repeatedly started to advance during the night, but as often were held back by the fire of the enemy machine guns and heavier pieces.

During one of the lulls in the German firing Captain Allen T. Hupp, of Corning, Ia., worked his men up to the center of a field, the slopes of which led to the Ourcq. Just then the Germans resumed their fire in full force. Immediately Hupp and his men dug in and held on where they were until daylight.

Meanwhile the German artillery had been quieted somewhat by the heavier artillery of the allies carrying out counter battery work. Choosing an opportune moment, Hupp's men dashed to the river, jumped in and waded across, cheering as they went.

Corporal Chris Berthelsen of Sioux City was among those of the first wave to cross the river. They immediately went after the machine guns on a hill on the north bank of the Ourcq. The fire which they opened on the enemy nest at this point was so intense that the Germans raised a white flag. Anticipating a nice bag of prisoners, the Americans rushed up, only to be opened again by the enemy machine guns as they approached. Then the Americans let loose with the full weight of their fire against the Germans, who again raised the white flag. Twelve Germans were killed and nine captured in this operation.

BOMB GETS TWO HUNS

(By Associated Press.)

Amsterdam, July 31.—Field Marshal von Eichhorn, the German commander of Ukraine, and his adjutant, were fatally wounded by a bomb at Kiev Tuesday, says an official announcement from the Kiev capital.

The bomb was thrown from a cab which drove close to the carriage in which the officials were approaching the Field Marshal's residence.

The assassin and the cab driver were arrested.

A later message announced that the two officers died last night.

SATISFIED WITH HIS GETAWAY CROWN PRINCE HAS PAUSED FOR A BREATHING SPELL

(By Associated Press.)

A complete calm fell over the Aisne-Marne battle area today, with only the thunder of guns to tell of the new and more terrible gusts of war storms to follow. Paris and Berlin both noted a quiet day. Infantry paused for breath, while the artillery pounded new roads of advance for Foch's armies.

If the pause in the offensive is attributed to war weariness, the crown prince's armies, must too, be worn out by the pressure of the last fort night. For notwithstanding huge reinforcements they have failed to throw back the antagonists a single foot. It is not believed the retreat is ended.

The fourth day of the great allied offensive saw only reciprocal bombardments.

Violent attempts through night by the Germans to expel the Americans and French from positions north of the Ourcq failed entirely.

The latest Berlin communication says 4,000 prisoners have been taken by them during the past few days and twenty-four thousand since July 15th.

EARLY REPORTS.

In spite of the tremendous efforts by the Germans to check the relentless pressure of the allies north of the Ourcq river, Wednesday finds the Germans' position there in grave danger.

The French, British and Americans are fighting their way forward. To the east of Fere-en-Tardenois they have driven a wedge into the enemy's line and seem to be in a position to compel a hurried retreat from the extreme bottom of the salient.

The allied line today runs south from Soissons to Grand Rozoy, then turns to the east. It passes just north of Fere-en-Tardenois and continues to the apex of the wedge at the village of Vesles, where it turns sharply south.

The allies' advance in this region has placed them in a dominating position.

All around the salient there has been a continuous battle during the last two days with the Germans launching repeated counter-attacks against the allied lines.

They all failed while the allies have gained ground at vital points.

There now seems little doubt that the Germans will retreat to the Vesle river as soon as possible, any possibility of making a stand north of the Ourcq being seemingly gone.

Against the new British positions at Morris, in the Lys salient, where the Germans were driven back Tuesday there has been heavy bombardment.

GREAT MASS MEETING CALLED BY PROHIBITION LEADERS

OPPONENTS OF LIQUOR TRAFFIC AND "BLOCKADE RUNNING" WILL MEET TOMORROW

AT TWO P. M.

ELECTION MAY BE CALLED

Prominent prohibition leaders, business and professional men; farmers, and ministers of churches sent out a call yesterday to all persons in the county who are opposed to the liquor traffic and to what is called "blockade running," to meet together in Hopkinsville at the courthouse tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock p. m. when definite action will be taken towards calling or petitioning for the calling of a county option election for the purpose of voting saloons and liquor out of Christian county.

There has been strong talk for some months by people all over the county, especially the farmers, about the calling of this election but it was not until yesterday that the issue came to a definite head.

The turning point seems to have been reached yesterday when a number of business and professional men went in a body before the City Commissioners protesting the issuance of a wholesale and retail liquor license to a party from Evansville, which recently went dry. The protest was made upon the grounds that the location at Ninth and Railroad Streets is not a proper place for a saloon and that, in view of the fact that three saloons have recently closed for lack of trade, to open another wholesale and retail house here would tend to open up an illegal traffic in liquor between Hopkinsville and territory which is by law now dry.

In the lengthy and very frank discussion of the matter before the Commission frequent and outspoken reference was made to the odious flagrant practice of "blockade running" by Tennessee cars which come here daily and return to Nashville or other points in that State heavily loaded with "booze." Numerous instances were cited where these cars race along at break-neck speed forcing all other traffic into the ditch to avoid collision or possibly loss of life or limb.

At the close of the discussion the protesting delegation withdrew all protests and asked the commission to issue the license to the Evansville party and to others who may apply and that those who believe in stamping out the liquor traffic altogether would take steps to call an election in the county at the earliest possible moment. After the delegation left the City Hall the Commission voted not to issue the license to the Evansville man.

Immediately following the meeting with the City Commission the protesting delegation went to an attorney's office where it was decided to hold a great mass meeting tomorrow at the hour above stated. A great crowd of prohibition advocates and all who wish to see the illegal traffic in liquor and "blockade running" stopped are expected at this meeting tomorrow afternoon.

LANDSDOWNE IS ENGLAND'S LA FOLLETTE

(By Associated Press.)

London, July 31.—Another letter on peace prospects, written by the Marquis of Lansdowne, was read at a conference of his supporters today. The latest utterance proposes no new policy, and consists largely of criticism of the allies for failure to state their war aims more specifically and urges them to take advantage of any opportunity for a discussion of terms. Lansdowne is the only British statesman of the first rank listed as a pacifist and his letter will be published largely in Germany.

WORKING ON THE WAR BILL

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, July 31.—Federal graduated excess tax on the use of automobiles running from $10 a year on cars originally retailing at not exceeding $500 to $60 on $3,000 cars and $20 additional for each $500 above $3,000 was agreed on today by the House Ways and Means Committee, framing the huge revenue bill. The tax applies directly to owners, while a tax of ten per cent on gross sales, agreed to yesterday, applies to manufacturers, but committee said owners ultimately will have to pay all of the tax, manufacturers passing it on in increased prices.

The committee also agreed to tax 2 cents a gallon on the production of gasoline and a federal excise tax of $5 a year on the use of motorcycles.

Yesterday a man was arrested in Evansville by detectives who had in his possession the other six of the twelve dresses stolen Saturday or Sunday night, when the store was broken open.

The goods taken were valued at something like $300.

OUR TRADE TO SOUTH SUFFERS

Washington, July 31.—Commercial relations between the United States and South America are in a serious condition because of the war.
The lack of shipping has caused a decrease in the amount of manufactured goods exported to Argentina, and the factories of that country are unable to meet the demand. Some of the factories require raw materials that have formerly been obtained in the United States and have been compelled to shut down or greatly curtail their forces.

The entrance of the United States into the war makes the end of extensive shipping between this country and Argentina. Besides a few steamships some sailing vessels still visit Argentina, according to Consular advices, but they are so small that navigation is dangerous and they do not even approximate the demands for commerce. The most needed articles are heavy iron castings and coal.

Argentina business men are greatly concerned because some of the vessels arriving at Buenos Aires have come in ballast, caused, they say, by the fact that they were sent away from the United States hurriedly to get the cargoes of products in Argentina that are needed in this country.

The United States has a credit of $60,000,000 in Buenos Aires which will be increased, according to this information, by $10,000,000 to be used as a basis in exchange trade. It is said this situation requires diplomatic arrangement and that this is one of the affairs to occupy the attention of Ambassador Noan, who has just returned to Washington after six months absence.

Materials from Argentina sought by the United States and the other nations at war with Germany include beef, sheep, hides and wool, principally. According to official figures recently issued by the Argentine government there are 80,000,000 sheep in the republic as compared with 40-000,000 in 1914, the last year in which figures are available. The wool clip last year was estimated 140,000 300 kilos valued at approximately $150,000,000. The total exports of Argentina last year aggregated about $175,000,000 and the imports $190-000,000. There were 3,000,000 head of cattle exported, principally to the United States, England and France.

To meet the situation caused by lack of ships the Argentine government has decided to change several old warships to merchant vessels and to buy more ships wherever they can be found. This is another of the problems with which Ambassador Noan will deal.

Similar conditions are reported from Chile. Exports from the United States of manufactured goods have been virtually suspended except on a limited number of articles. Complaint is made that a large number of vessels from the United States arrive at Chilean ports in ballast to bring nitrates to the United States. Urgent request has been made to this country to permit those vessels to carry cargoes of needed commodities.

MRS. F. X. BUSHMAN GETS DIVORCE, $40,000 ALIMONY.

Baltimore, Md., July 30.—Mrs.
Josephine F. Bushman received an absolute divorce yesterday from Francis X. Bushman, motion picture star, $40,000 alimony, with interest at 5 per cent. custody of their five children, an allowance of $40,000 a year for them until they marry, become of age or leave her; $3,000 attorneys fees and court costs, and Bushman is required to pay for the education and medical care of the children.

Judge McLane ordered $10,000 of the alimony to be paid immediately, $10,000 within fourteen months and the remainder within twenty months.
Interest is to be paid monthly.

Mrs. Bushman charged cruelty, and neglect, told of being separated many months from her husband, and declared that on a certain day her husband registered at a New York hotel with a woman other than herself as Mr. and Mrs. Bushman.

TANK CORPS GROWING

Recruits Arrive Daily at Gettysburg Camp.

Long Hikes in Heavy Marching Order Fit Men for Duty With Persh-ing's Army.

Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa.—The American tank corps continues to grow and develop. Recruits are still coming in and the men already here are being drilled to within an inch of their lives. This is the preliminary discipline and the physical drill which will fit the men for the strenuous life of a "tanker" overseas. Twenty-mile hikes in heavy marching order are almost daily occurrences.

Although the work is hard, the men like it. They realize their need of this heavy drill and exercise. Negotiating the gray steel monsters over No Man's Land is distinctly not a job for a man whose muscles are not almost as hard as steel itself. And for an erstwhile civilian's muscles to become sufficiently hardened takes time and training.

The daily work, the fresh air, plenty of sleep and the extensive daily exercises are doing wonders in producing as fine a bunch of real fighting men as can be found anywhere. The officers' school will be continued indefinitely.
As fast as men complete the prescribed course, others will take their places.
From now on, all commissioned officers will be selected from the ranks.

The tank corps is a progressive unit. Every once in a while a battalion will disappear overnight, bound for "somewhere." Recruits will fill their places and the work of training will move right along. New officers, trained simultaneously with the men, will command the disappearing battalion.

BEST SHOD FIGHTERS

The men stationed at Camp Sher-

the device being put to practical use.
Each man wears two pairs of wool socks when fitted for the shoes.

Instinctive Action of Officer Reveals

Paris.—Little unconscious acts often reveal the real measure of the popularity of a great leader.

In the photographer's showcase not far from the fashionable Parc Monceau there is among other pictures an excellent almost life-size head of M.
Clemenceau. A young French officer who was passing the shop the other day glanced casually at the showcase.
Perceiving the picture of his chief he instinctively raised his hand to a salu-tate and passed on unaware that his spontaneous tribute had been observed.

In the early days of the long-range gun bombardment of Paris, says the Matin, it was stated that the shells were made from a new type of steel alloyed with vanadium, which gave it exceptional properties. But analysis has shown that the shells are made of ordinary nickel and chrome steel, such as is in current use for making guns both in France and Germany and whose properties are well known.

JEWISH GIRLS GOING TO PALESTINE

The girls in this group are soon going to Palestine to serve as nurses with the British forces that are wresting the Holy Land from the Turk. They will be attached to the Jewish battalions that are now being recruited in the United States, and instead of the usual Red Cross emblem will wear the traditional Hebrew six pointed Star of David on their caps. The girls pictured here are but the first of many from all over the United States who will be recruited for service in Palestine.

Washington, July 31.—Because the American Red Cross, the Young Men's Christian association and other allied bodies doing war work in France are unable to obtain a sufficient number of women workers, the war department prohibition against granting passport to relatives of officers and men in the American expeditionary forces was modified by Gen. March, chief of staff, so as to permit sisters of soldiers to serve as workers under certain conditions.

The order provides that the sisters must be duly accredited members of one of the authorized organizations; must be particularly qualified for the work to be done; must be sent to France as workers and not as relatives; must make no effort to visit relatives in France whether sick or well; must be returned home by the organization to which they belong if they violate the rules as laid down by the department, and must automatically be returned home if they marry officers or soldiers in the American expeditionary forces after their arrival abroad.

LORD TOOK A HAND.

After daylight Tuesday two German aviators, with machine guns aboard, flying low, attacked an American supply train south of Sergy.
They were driven off by anti-aircraft guns.

The Germans later attacked a dressing station. Word of this having been sent to the aerial commander an American aviator soon arrived and single handed attacked the boches from above. In trying to get away the Germans collided. The wings of their machines locked and the planes fell, both aviators and gunners being killed.

FUEL FAMINE FACED.

New England is faced by a fuel famine. Increasing demand for coal for emergency fleet army, navy and other Government activities is the cause of the shortage which threatens the supply for next winter.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a humming sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarhal, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Halls' Catarrh Medicine acts upon the blood on the mucous surface of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Halls' Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. Halls' Catarrh Medicine, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

THAT BOLO KNIFE SURE CAME HANDY

Henry Johnson, Colored Soldier, Split a Lot of Hun Skulls With the Weapon.

WAS ADOPTED FROM MOROS

War Department Now Issues the Terrible Cleaver to Some of Our Troops, and the Germans Don't Like It at All.

Washington.—A year ago Henry Johnson, a colored citizen of Albany, N. Y., was peddling ice, coal and wood in contented obscurity. Today Henry Johnson, a soldier of the United States, is wearing the coveted French war cross with palms, because he proved himself a brave man, and because at the critical moment he got his hands on a bolo knife.

The cable has told of Henry's exploit—how on night duty with a companion in an American listening post he "took on" 24 marauding Germans in a swift rough-and-tumble, killed some of them with his rifle, bombed others from his basket of grenades, and then, even after he had been wounded, split so many skulls with his bolo that all the enemy left on their feet after meeting Henry became suddenly and violently homesick.

The bolo knife which Henry wielded so well weighs one pound and three ounces without its scabbard, and has a broad 14-inch blade. It is sharpened to a razor edge, and near the end runs abruptly to a thrusting point. But one of its chief virtues as a small-arm is its cleaving power. Most of the weight of the knife is distributed along the back of the blade.

Americans first ran up against the bolo in the Philippines. Over there it was originally an agricultural tool, just as the machete was in Cuba, and blacksmiths at country crossroads hammered it out infinitely and in all sorts of forms. The "kris" with its curly blade is a form of bolo, and the "campilan" is a bigger bolo.

Was Weapon of the Moros.

It was up among the Moros that it was developed for war purposes. In the underbrush it proved a very terrible weapon, as many a trooper found to his cost. A stroke in the tropical night—just one—counted for a major American casualty. After a while our soldiers found there was no particular knack in the Malay use of the bolo, they could not master. Then they began to capture bolos. And so, after the war ended, bolos kept coming back to the United States as souvenirs.

But it was not until 1910 that the war department tried the experiment of issuing the bolo knife as a regular part of the American equipment. It was used and tested by our men in Mexico, but there it was employed chiefly as a tool rather than a weapon. It was not until our khaki-clad boys went down into the French trenches that the bolo knife proved its right to be considered "the last line of defense" and a life-saver to the man who un-sheathed it.

Our colored troops display a special aptitude and affection for this weapon. The white fighter is inclined to rely upon his automatic pistol in an emergency at close quarters, but the colored man in uniform takes as naturally to the bolo knife as he does to well, as he does to the name of "Mr. Johnson."

Issued to U. S. Troops.

The bolo knife is issued to our troops in two sizes—the smaller size of the type which Henry Johnson used, and a larger knife employed exclusively by field artillery batteries. This latter is practically a short sword, comparable to the principal weapon of the old Roman legionaries. It is two feet long and weighs between three and four pounds. Of course, being issued only to artillerymen who are not ordinarily actually at grips with the enemy, it is intended mainly as a sort of underbrush cutter. But in the hands of a desperate man fighting for his life it is a terrible persuader.

The bolo is in no sense a trench knife. That is issued to every man in the ranks and is a special tool not meant for fighting save at the last gasp. But the 14-inch bolo knife is essentially a weapon. It is issued to six per cent of our infantry forces—not regularly to every seventeen man, but as occasion may require or the immediate commanding officer may direct. Henry Johnson was given his because he was assigned to particularly dangerous duty in a listening post. Others may be equipped with bolo knives—for instance, as members of a special detachment to accompany raiding forces within the enemy lines. Their work must be quick, silent and thorough. From Lunenburg to Cantigny the Germans have found it so.

The small arms division of the United States ordnance department believes that the bolo knife has points of superiority over any knife in use on the European battlefield, and it would not have been adopted for our use.

CONSTIPATION

And Sour Stomach Caused This Lady Much Suffering. Black-Draught Relieved.

Meadowville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills. They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed I was more constipated than before."

I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and not bad to swallow. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal, no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape.

I cannot say too much for Black-Draught for it is the finest laxative one can use."

Dr. J. C. Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no bad after-effects. It has won the praise of thousands of people who have used it.

SISTERS OF SOLDIERS MAY GO TO FRANCE

COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE—STUDENT NURSE RESERVE.

The United States must have 25,000 student nurses now—student nurses to release graduate nurses for the work at the front. Without student nurses to take their places graduate nurses cannot be sent to the front in Europe and our men will suffer from the lack of care. The United States Government has placed the opportunity and responsibility of recruiting these student nurses in the hands of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense.

Now that our boys are being called in the draft every month and a constant stream of them are being sent to France it is a very poignant question in every family whether the provisions for taking care of the great number of soldiers is growing with the increasing need for such care. The nurses who are graduates will soon have to go where the need is greatest and the way will be open for the thousands of girls and women from the ages of 19 to 35 to enroll themselves as a body of student nurses to fill the places made vacant. It is not only for the period of the war that these nurses will be needed, but for the reconstruction period after the war is over, the need will be just as great.

A campaign for student nurses will be conducted in this county as soon as the full instructions are in hand. Mrs. Frank Yost and Mrs. Ira L. Smith will have charge of this and it is hoped to enroll a large number of girls and women who will take training so that their whole time will be given to the work which will mean that thousands of graduate nurses can be released to do full duty at the front.

It is planned to have a complete registration of women with the avocations for which they are fitted or for which they are willing to train. The patriotism of our girls and women is as unquestioned as that of the men who are going so cheerfully to the training camps and so smilingly to the trenches. This is the first definite call to the service of the country and the flag that has come to the women. Last year they were asked to register by occupation and vocation but the purpose of the government was not so plain nor the need so great as now and the call comes with force and insistence at this time. The date of registration will be settled a little later. That our women will respond with alacrity is unquestioned and now that so many are asking what definite work they can do to match that of their brothers and sweethearts the answer comes like a clarion call: There is the Student Nurse Reserve calling right now for 25,000 women to enter training at once.

The Condition

By IMES MACDONALD

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

It was just after noon on Saturday, and the only remaining man in the office pushed back from his desk with a sigh that was half a curse, gazing intently out over the irregular top of Manhattan toward the blue-hazed bay.

Collin Bell had just been going over his accounts, and he was twelve hundred and eighty odd dollars short—almost a year's salary! For a long five minutes he sat there running over the details in his mind. He was already past thirty, and, although almost overwhelmed with the desire to succeed, he had been unable to get beyond his present salary, all of which it took for him to live in what he called decency.

He might go on for several years without having the shortage discovered, or he might "cut and run for it," and have the thing discovered in a day. The impossibility of his ever making up a deficiency out of his salary was apparent, and yet something had to be done! At this moment his ponderings were interrupted. "Pardon me," came a voice, "but where is my father?"

He turned in surprise to face Inez Vrain, the "Old Man's" daughter. He had seen her often enough to know her by sight, and also to know that his whole year's salary wouldn't buy her clothes for six months, and he had neither saw nor any particular admiration for her, except, of course, as something pleasant to look at.

"Mr. Vrain has gone to Philadelphia to attend an important conference," he explained, "and won't be home till Monday."

"Then why didn't someone telephone me?" she demanded.

"I'm sure I don't know," he said dryly.

"He promised to take me to luncheon and to give me his whole afternoon," she said, disappointedly, "and now everything's spoiled."

Bell grinned. It wasn't polite of him, but he couldn't help it. Some people's troubles were so trivial!

"Just for that," she said primly, "I'll have to request you to escort me to the Delancey for luncheon. I've come all the way into town to be lunched with by a man, and as long as father is gone, you'll do as well as the next one, I suppose."

Collin Bell was rather taken back by this unique request, but he had his week's salary in his pocket and trusted that would see him through.

"Very well," he said, "if you insist."

And a few moments later they were seated at a cozy table for two in a rather crowded dining room, inspecting each other curiously. They both seemed surprised to be getting on so well together, and before she knew it, Inez Vrain was chattering to Collin Bell as if he were a favored friend of her own social world.

But sudden, Bell's face underwent a change. Coming toward them, preceded by the head waiter, was the "Old Man," followed by a friend. The "Old Man," noticed Bell, and started to bow genially, when he caught the curve of his daughter's cheek and instead of passing on, he stopped.

"Hello, Bell," he said cordially, extending his hand, and successfully averting his surprise.

"Why, dad," said Inez. "Mr. Bell said you had gone to Philadelphia to attend a conference!"

Bell drew down the lid of his left eye, and the "Old Man" just caught himself in time.

"To be sure," he said easily, "but a wire came at the last minute and postponed it."

And as he moved away he said in an off-hand manner: "Wish you'd drop into my office the first thing Monday morning, Bell. I want to go into that Philadelphia matter."

And Collin Bell was not sure, but he thought the "Old Man" winked at him. On Monday morning the "Old Man" leaned back in his chair and grinned at Collin Bell.

"You've been here five or six years, Bell, and I never noticed you particularly before. But you've got tact, do you know that? Of course, I'd forgotten Inez entirely Saturday and your quickness with that Philadelphia story saved me a bad half hour with a certain young woman who has a temper and a clever tongue."

The "Old Man" drew his private check book toward him and passed over a check to Bell for $1,500.

"This is coming to you on last year's salary," he said. "From today you are to be my personal representative at five thousand a year."

Bell took the check with thanks—he was never effusive—and went out of the office. He went straight to the bank and deposited the "Old Man's" check and then drew one of his own back to the "Old Man" for the twelve hundred and eighty odd dollars of his shortages. This he inclosed with an itemized statement, a short explanation and his signature, and sent up to the office by messenger. Then, with a little sigh, he started slowly uptown, walking with a careless feeling of freedom that he had not known for a long time. At last he was square—but at the sacrifice of the only opportunity that had ever come to him. Well, it was the only way, he felt, and there were other jobs! Then, just in front of him a roadster drew up to the curb and a girl got out. And as she turned to shut the door they were face to face.

"Why, it's Mr. Bell!" she smiled cordially.

Bell shook her hand in a compelling manner that for some reason or other was vastly exciting to Inez Vrain.

"Lunching again with father?" he quizzed, with a twinkle.

"Aren't you working today?" she came back at him.

"No," he said shortly. "I quit this morning."

Her eyes grew stormy. "Did he fire you for lunching with me?" she demanded angrily.

"Oh, no," he denied.

"Then why did you quit?"

"Ask your father," he said grimly, and was gone.

Thirty minutes later she burst into her father's private office. "I want to know why Collin Bell quit his job this morning," she demanded.

Judson Vrain studied his daughter a moment and then handed her Bell's note of resignation and statement of shortages.

"It was a decent thing for him to do," he said gravely. "I probably never would have found it out, and I had just raised him this morning to five thousand a year."

"Five thousand dollars a year? My goodness! But then, I suppose you could live on it. Many people do," said Inez Vrain, demurely.

For a moment Judson stared at his daughter, and then he grinned a little. "Lots of people live on a whole lot less," he said, "but the day you marry Collin Bell I'll give him the Philadelphia branch at ten thousand dollars a year, but," he wagged his finger in his daughter's face, "he's got to make good."

"Of course!" she said, as she whirled out of the door. "But I haven't got him yet." And Judson Vrain laughed.

A few moments later Bell was called to the phone by his landlady.

"This is Inez Vrain."

"Yes."

"I have just seen my father."

"Yes."

"Would you consider the Philadelphia branch at ten thousand?"

"He's hardly authorized you—"

"Would you?" she demanded impatiently.

"Of course—but there's a condition, I suppose."

"Yes, there's a condition."

"What is it?"

"Meet me at the Delancey for luncheon and—maybe you'll find out," she laughed unobscurely.

And when they left the Delancey a few hours later, although no word had been said, he turned to her in the street and smiled into her eyes.

"Let's go and have it over with," he murmured.

"You mean?" Her eyes flew wide with surprise and then drooped shyly.

"I mean, let's fulfill the condition right now—this afternoon."

"Is it," she asked, "because of—of Philadelphia, or—"

"Philadelphia be hanged!" said Collin Bell.

Perishing Pays for Pig.

General Pershing's automobile recently killed a growing pig, the most valuable possession of a poor, aged woman. The woman wept, as the pig meant much to her. She knew the car contained the American general, but she was told not to make a claim, as the pig was to blame.

General Pershing later instituted an inquiry and learned the situation. How much the pig meant to the destitute woman was shown when her tears of grief changed to joy when a letter arrived containing a check for $20, with kind words besides.—New York Herald.

Times Have Changed.

Whatever other platitude may be successfully controverted, there's no use denying that the world does move. Yesterday I saw a Sioux Indian, in feathers, moccasins and paint, boarding a Broadway trolley to go down to the Fifth avenue theater and sell Liberty bonds, and ten minutes later, I saw a retired brigadier-general of the United States army, who received from an Indian runner the first intelligence of the Custer massacre, earnestly discussing over his noonday toddy, in Waldorf-Astoria bar, the probable developments on the western front in Europe.—New York Letter.

Three Cows and a Lily Equal Five Cows and No Lily

WE are offering you the Lily cream separator because the Lily is the machine we believe in. Its records and tests have convinced us that you can make more money from three cows and a Lily than with five cows and no Lily. That ought to interest you.

We believe in the sturdy, simple, sanitary design; the working of the few closely-grouped gears; the splash oiling system that doesn't fail; the one-adjustment feature which we will explain later.

Most of all we believe in the Lily bowl, which gets all the cream out of the milk, down to about one drop in each gallon. That's what counts.

Come in and see this good cream separator.

RIGHT AT HOME.

"And what were you in civilian life?" asked the captain.

"I was a traveling salesman," replied the recruit.

"That's all right then, you'll get plenty of orders around here."

Douglas Fairbanks is noted for his athletic prowess, and in "Reaching for the Moon," his latest play from the Arctcraft Studios, he engages in terrific combat. In staging these fights it is necessary to secure the services of men of considerable strength to oppose the strenuous Douglas, who carries a knock-out punch in either hand and wrestles like a professional. In "Reaching for the Moon" a band of Italian conspirators attempt to assassinate Fairbanks, and in the ensuing conflict the furnishings of a palace are completely wrecked. To play the role of the leader of this band "Bull" Montana, the well-known Italian wrestler, was selected, and the scene bristles with realism.

Canton, China, is increasing exports. China plans currency reform.

This Mirro Kettle Has Nine Superb Features

The smiling face of this splendid Mirro Aluminum Tea Kettle is matched by utility and durability that make him a lifelong kitchen friend. Here are the nine big features:

(1) Highly ebonzoid, sure-grip detachable handle. (2) Handle ears welded on. (3) Spout welded on. (4) Slotted ears permit handle to be shifted to any desired position and prevent it from coming in contact with sides. (5) Rivetless, no-burn, ebonzoid knob. (6) Self-filling, easy-pouring spout. (7) Wide base—saves fuel, prevents flame creeping up around sides.

Also, (8) the famous Mirro finish, easy to keep like new. And, (9) the beautiful Colonial design. Also made in plain round style.

Star features 2 and 5 belong exclusively to Mirro Aluminum.

The price is no more than asked for aluminum kettles without these many features.

Come and see it for yourself and learn what a different and better line Mirro Aluminum really is, through and through.

MOOTED QUESTION UP FOR SETTLEMENT

(By Associated Press.)

Boston, July 31.—The full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court has been called upon to determine the ownership of a fund nearly a century old which is claimed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts on one hand and the Chilean government on the other.

In 1821 an American ship returning from China to this port was seized by Chilean revolutionists and its cargo confiscated. When normal conditions prevailed in Chile, the United States demanded indemnity, and Chile paid $70,400.

William H. Gardiner of Brookline was selected to distribute the money among those entitled to it. He executed the trust except as to two Chinese-known only as Paqua and Moqua, merchants—and Thomas Furber of this city. Mr. Gardiner failed to locate these persons or their representatives. When he died the trust was transmitted to his son and upon the latter's death to the grandson and great-grandson, Robert H. Gardiner and Robert H. Gardiner, Jr., who are now its custodians.

The present holders of the fund have searched through the records of the State Department, through the American consular service at Canton, China, and through various other sources for the heirs of Paqua, Moqua and Thomas Furber, without success.

TOBACCO IN PORTO RICO

(By Associated Press.)

San Juan, Porto Rico, July 31.—Tobacco planters who have held their crops to the present time in all probability will get as much for it as the high prices realized last year when prices made a new high record for Porto Rico.

Tobacco buyers during the past ten days have suddenly realized that the crop which originally they expected would be the largest in the history of the island had suddenly shrunk and that instead of being 35,000,000 or 40,000,000 pounds it is not now estimated to exceed 25,000,000 lbs.

Prices have been advancing so that a good many buyers now figure that purchases made during the past week have been on basis which will make the price as high if not higher than last year's crop, which averaged in many instances more than 40 cents a pound or more.
